1. Applicant's election of Group I in the reply filed on 4/20/2010 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

2. Please note that as a result of this election the application has been transferred. It is currently being examined by Margaret Moore.

3. Applicant is advised that should claims 3, 4 and 12 be found allowable, claims 7, 10 and 13 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

The Examiner cannot find a difference between these two sets of claims.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1 to 5 and 7 to 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2003-048813 (cited in applicants' IDS) in view of JP 2003-306550 (as interpreted by the English language translation provided).

JP 2003-048813 teaches a cosmetic composition for hair containing an alkyl modified polydimethylsiloxane. See the abstract. This also teaches a water in oil emulsion containing the alkyl modified polydimethylsiloxane. The alkyl group can have from 4 to 30 carbon atoms, which includes the entire claimed range of from 4 to 18 carbon atoms. The siloxane is a trisiloxane, meeting the structure in claim 2. This reference teaches the General Formula (1) in claim 1 but does not specify how it is prepared.

JP 2003-306550 teaches a method of making and, specifically, deodorizing an alkyl modified polydimethylsiloxane. As can be seen from paragraph 3, such alkyl modified siloxanes are prepared by a method in which an alpha olefin is reacted with an SiH group. This meets the hydrosilylation reaction in step [A]. The resulting alkyl modified siloxane then undergoes a hydrogenation reaction in the presence of a hydrogenation catalyst, as taught in paragraph 5. This step deodorizes the resulting alkyl modified siloxane. This meets claimed step [B]. Such siloxanes can be used in cosmetics.

Thus one having ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to use the method disclosed in JP 2003-306550 to prepare the alkyl modified siloxane in JP 2003-048813 in an effort to obtain a siloxane having reduced odor. In this manner the skilled artisan would have found the claimed process and resulting product obvious.

For claim 3, see paragraph 7.

6. The remaining patents are cited as being of general interest. 5,413,781, 4,640,792, 6,803,440 and 3,671,433 all teach different methods of preparing an alkyl modified siloxane. The Branlard et al. references teach hydrogenating the reaction product of an SiH and olefin but do not teach an alkene (olefin) reactant per se.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Margaret G. Moore whose telephone number is 571-272-1090. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday and Wednesday to Friday, 10am to 4pm.
